

The Safety Supply Accreditation Course

“Anyone can sell Safety...but you wouldn't buy Safety from just Anyone.....”

How many UK businesses 'sell safety products'?

There are thousands! Some good, some not so...Tens of thousands of products are purchased to keep people safe & healthy at work, BUT are these products the right ones for the task? How can you be sure the advice you've got from your supplier is correct? How does that sales person know what they're selling is appropriate? In truth, some don't! BSIF have launched the Safe Supply Accreditation - a publicly recognised qualification at National Level to allow your business to demonstrate capability to customers.

The BSIF has developed the Safe Supply Accreditation Course

- For customer facing staff to develop their expertise, knowledge and advice they provide for the end user.
- An E-Learning module course that when completed offers a BSIF OFQUAL certified course qualification. The qualified sales person will be able to show they can supply products with competence. A great advantage for employers selling safety to the market.
- Further learning and qualifications are planned in specific hazard areas such as Respiratory Protection in the future
- Businesses selling PPE will gain an advantage over competitors by having their staff trained as qualified safety sellers, able to provide customers with expert advice on products and give them confidence when purchasing.

The Safe Supply syllabus will be delivered through e-learning allowing the most effective and efficient method of gaining the knowledge.

Safe Supply Accreditation Level 2 Qualification covers:

- ⇒ Principles of Legislation in the H&S Market
- ⇒ Understanding how Occupational Safety is managed
- ⇒ Principles of CE Marking and Product Standards
- ⇒ Principles of Market Surveillance within the H&S environment

The course comes with a recognised qualification from the Office of Qualifications and Examinations Regulation (Ofqual)
